MHC Partners for Children

Our MHC Partners for Children Team had a productive month connecting with and supporting families in our community.

On August 25, our Director's Network met for professional learning on Virginia Quality Birth to Five (VQB5), where program leaders exchanged ideas and focused on enhancing early learning environments.

Our Team also partnered with the Spencer-Penn Centre at Bee City Martinsville's Bee Flight Festival on August 15, hosting story times, pinwheel-making for children, and distributing themed snack packs and early learning information.

At the Maplewood Play and Read to Learn event, families enjoyed stories, created wind chimes, and participated in hands-on activities. These monthly gatherings offer a welcoming space for creativity and connection.

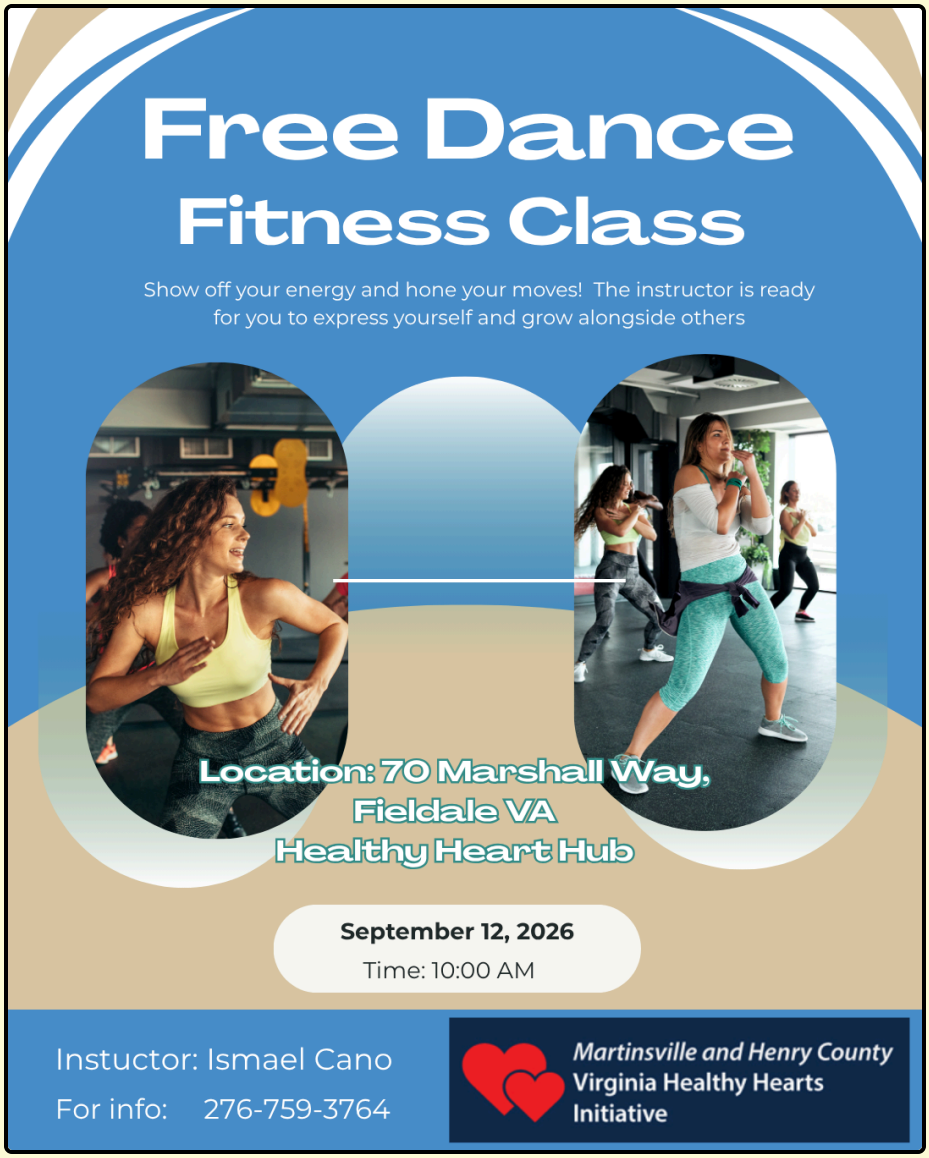

Healthy Community

Our Healthy Hearts Learning Collaborative launched a monthly Saturday morning Dance Fitness program to increase access to enjoyable, low-impact physical activity and to promote cardiovascular health in our community. This program offers a welcoming environment for individuals of varying ages and fitness levels to exercise, build social connections, and develop healthier routines.

The program's first session had nine participants. Monthly sessions will assist the Learning Collaborative's mission of promoting and providing another entry point for physical activity and healthy lifestyle opportunities across the MHC community.

Come out for their next Dance Fitness session on Saturday, September 12, at 10.a.m. All classes are held in the Healthy Heart Hub located at 70 Marshall Way in Fieldale.

For more information on this program, please contact our CHW, Loleader, at 276-403-3516.

AmeriCorps

Our AmeriCorps tutoring program wrapped up the month before school began in Henry County with a total of 400 children served. There will be more than 25 service members, 10 of whom are returning members, gearing up for September to provide services to our Henry County Public Schools students in grades kindergarten through second.

Eastman Annual Golf Tournament

There's still time to register for our Eastman Annual Golf Tournament coming up on Saturday, September 26. Team registrations are still open!

For more information, please visit our website, or contact Rebecca at 276-638-3946, x110.
